Learn to Live Life "Full-Throttle"

A sudden and spontaneous motorcycle purchase is the catalyst for Mary Lou Dobbs's journey of profound and personal transformation. A woman with substantial professional achievements and financial security, she realizes that she is actually living a "root-bound" life dedicated to staying small and fitting in.

When Mary Lou learns to embrace change, rewrite her life story, release fears, be conscious of her intentions, words and actions and activate her “fun meter,” she moves in a direction of flow and ease and begins to live life “full-throttle” (with a motorcycle club membership as an important factor). Her business thrives in this prolonged recession, even while she writes Repotting Yourself full time, and she attracts an editor and publisher for her book with minimal effort.

In turbulent times, when so many of us are working harder and longer, Mary Lou's story will inspire you to discover how you can transform your own life.
